01

PROJECT BRIEF & CONVERSION GOAL

The website must sell senior judgement and clarity - not make the firm look like another growth agency.

Primary objective

Convert qualified founders, CEOs and investors who recognise a growth/leadership problem into a high-quality first conversation or a Machine Check enquiry. The website should actively repel prospects who want low-cost tactical execution.

One-sentence creative brief

Build a premium, editorial, commercially intelligent website that makes The Growth Machine feel like senior operators entering the business - not marketers pitching services from outside it.

Audience state on arrival

Visitor	What they are thinking	What the site must prove
Founder / CEO	"Growth is messy. I know I need senior help, but I am not sure what role or problem to solve first."	You can diagnose across functions, simplify decisions and work inside the business.
Investor / board member	"This company needs stronger commercial discipline quickly."	The engagement is structured, measurable, low-commitment and capable of transferring into the company.
Functional leader	"We need direction above the work we are already doing."	You will strengthen rather than undermine capable internal teams.
Agency / partner	"My client needs leadership I do not provide."	You sit above execution, do not compete for every production budget and can make their work more effective.

Primary conversion hierarchy

- Primary CTA: "Book a conversation" or "Book a Machine Check".
- Secondary CTA: "See how it works".
- Tertiary: read a case study / insight. No newsletter pop-up at launch.

Do not do

- Do not use gear/cog graphics, rocket ships, hockey-stick charts, neon gradients or generic "growth hacking" aesthetics.
- Do not headline the site with combined years of experience. Biography is proof, not the customer problem.
- Do not call the company a full-service agency or list dozens of channel services.
- Do not fabricate client logos, outcomes or testimonials. Personal career evidence and Growth Machine case studies must be clearly separated.

02

BRAND AND VISUAL SYSTEM

Senior, precise, warm enough to feel human, and visually unlike a performance-marketing shop.

Brand personality

Attribute	Expression
Senior	Calm confidence. Clear decisions. Few adjectives. No hype.
Commercial	Talk revenue, margin, customers, team and operating model - not vanity metrics.
Constructive	The “machine” metaphor is architecture and operating system, not industrial gimmick.
Human	Andrew and Tarren are visible; language feels like experienced operators speaking plainly.
Slightly disruptive	Challenge default hiring / agency behaviour without sounding anti-agency or arrogant.

Recommended visual direction

Token	Recommendation
Base background	Warm off-white / paper: #F3F0E8.
Primary text	Near-black: #111111.
Signal accent	Burnt orange / vermilion: #D65A31. Use sparingly for CTA, numbering and key lines.
Secondary neutral	Stone / steel grey: #696969 and #E8E4DA.
Typography	Primary: Inter Tight / Neue Haas-style grotesk. Editorial accent: Instrument Serif, Source Serif 4 or equivalent. If licensing is a concern, use open-source fonts.
Corners	Moderate radius, 8–16px. Avoid pill-shaped everything.
Motion	Subtle line/reveal motion and diagnostic-grid transitions. No spinning cogs.
Photography	Documentary, natural, intelligent. Founders at whiteboards / laptops / workshops; tight detail crops; real environments; slight grain acceptable.

Machine visual language

Use system diagrams, connected modules, scorecards, arrows, operating loops and structured grids. The feeling should be “commercial architecture” rather than literal machinery. A distinctive motif could be a thin orange line moving through modules and becoming cleaner / more ordered as the visitor scrolls.

DESIGN NORTH STAR

The website should look like a management system with taste - not a SaaS dashboard and not a creative agency portfolio.

03

INFORMATION ARCHITECTURE

Keep the launch site small enough to maintain, large enough to establish a new category.

Recommended launch sitemap

Page	Role in the sale	Primary CTA
Home	Explain the buying moment, category, difference and next step.	Book a conversation
How It Works	Make the methodology feel concrete and low-risk.	Start with a Machine Check
Services	Explain the three engagement models.	Find the right engagement
Machine Check	Sell the diagnostic front door.	Book / enquire
Growth Sprint	Sell scoped problem-solving.	Discuss a sprint
Fractional Growth Office	Sell embedded recurring leadership.	Discuss a 90-day mandate
Who We Help	Qualify sectors, situations and fit.	See if we fit
About	Sell operator credibility and the two-person model.	Meet the operators / book
Insights	Build authority and SEO over time.	Read / explore
Contact / Book	Short qualification and scheduling path.	Submit / schedule

MVP option

If speed matters, launch Home + Services + How It Works + About + Contact first. “Who We Help” can be a home section and Insights can follow once at least 4–6 strong articles/case studies exist. Do not launch an empty blog.

04

GLOBAL UX & COMPONENT RULES

Make every page help the visitor answer: Is this my problem? Do I trust them? What happens next?

Navigation

Desktop: left-aligned wordmark; centred or right nav; high-contrast CTA button. Sticky after first scroll. Mobile: compact wordmark + menu; persistent bottom or menu CTA only if unobtrusive.

Recommended nav labels

How it works | Services | Who we help | About | Insights | [Book a conversation]

Reusable components

Component	Design / content rule
Problem card	One commercial symptom, one short consequence. No icons unless custom/simple.
System map	Horizontal on desktop, swipe/stack on mobile. 8–12 modules connected by a signal line.
Four-stage method	Numbered 01–04 with short action verb and one sentence.
Service card	Who it is for, duration, what changes, CTA. Avoid long deliverable laundry lists.
Proof card	Before → intervention → outcome. Quantify only where supported.
Fit / not-fit split	Two-column or toggle; explicit disqualification increases trust.
Founder profile	Editorial portrait, 3-line role thesis, capabilities, selected career proof. No CV dump.
CTA band	One provocative question + one action. Maximum two buttons.
FAQ accordion	5–8 commercially useful objections; no filler SEO questions.

Copy rules

- Short declarative headlines. Avoid “unlock”, “supercharge”, “10x”, “innovative solutions”, “holistic synergies”.
- Use “growth” to mean commercial growth, not only marketing acquisition.
- Prefer examples over claims: “pricing, sales, ecommerce, team or GTM” explains breadth better than “end-to-end”.
- Use first person plural on About and process pages; use customer-first language on Home and services.
- Use South African English spelling where relevant, but keep terminology globally understandable.

05

HOMEPAGE - DESIGN + FINAL COPY

The home page should make the customer feel understood before it explains what you do.

Section 1 - Hero

Design cue

Full-width, generous negative space. Left 60% copy, right 40% abstract commercial-system visual or strong documentary portrait crop. Avoid dashboard screenshots at launch. Orange signal line can run through the hero and continue into the next section.

Final copy

Turn founder-led growth into a growth machine.

Senior commercial leadership for businesses that are ready to scale - but not ready for a full-time C-suite.
Two senior operators. One growth mandate.
Primary button: Book a conversation Secondary text link: See how it works

Section 2 - Problem

Final copy

YOU PROBABLY DON'T NEED ANOTHER AGENCY.

Growing businesses often reach an awkward stage. You have people, agencies, software and ideas - but growth still feels inconsistent, decisions still route through the founder, and nobody quite owns the whole commercial system.
The problem may be marketing. Or sales. Or positioning. Or pricing. Or ecommerce. Or team design. Hiring a specialist before you know which problem you actually have can make the machine more complicated, not better.

Section 3 - What we do

Final copy

WE START ONE LEVEL ABOVE THE TACTIC.

The Growth Machine looks across the whole path from business model to customer to revenue:
Business model → Market → Customer → Proposition → Brand → Demand → Sales → Ecommerce → Retention → Data → Systems → Team
We identify what is actually constraining growth, design the system around it and stay close enough to implementation to make the change stick.

Section 4 - Method

Final copy

01 DIAGNOSE	02 DESIGN	03 BUILD	04 TRANSFER
Find the real constraint.	Choose the priorities, model and operating system.	Lead implementation with your team and partners.	Leave the capability, people and rhythm inside the business.

Section 5 - Offers

Final copy

MACHINE CHECK	GROWTH SPRINT	FRACTIONAL GROWTH OFFICE
You know growth is stuck. You do not yet know why. A 2–3 week diagnostic that identifies the constraint, priorities and capability you actually need.	You know the problem. Now solve it properly. A focused 4–8 week engagement for GTM, pricing, ecommerce, sales architecture, positioning or another defined growth challenge.	You need senior ownership, not another recommendation. Embedded fractional leadership to run the growth agenda, align teams and build the next stage of the business.

CTA under cards: Explore ways to work with us

Section 6 - Difference

Design cue

Three large statements, minimal iconography. Consider staggered black/cream cards.

Final copy

NO PREDETERMINED SOLUTION	NO JUNIOR HANDOFF	NO PERMANENT DEPENDENCY
We do not sell media, software or one functional answer. The diagnosis decides the work.	The people you meet are the people thinking about and working on the business.	The goal is to build a system and internal capability that can keep working without us.

Section 7 - Two operators

Final copy

ONE ENGAGEMENT. TWO SENIOR OPERATORS.

The Growth Machine combines two complementary commercial careers across B2B, B2C, sales, revenue, brand, FMCG, ecommerce, data, insights and business building. The problem determines who leads; the client gets the benefit of both perspectives.

CTA: Meet Andrew & Tarren

Section 8 - Proof

At launch, use selected career / business-building proof clearly labelled as “experience before The Growth Machine”. As soon as client engagements exist, replace this with Growth Machine case studies using Before → What changed → Result. Do not use unsupported combined-revenue claims.

Section 9 - Qualifier CTA

*Not sure whether you need a CRO, CMO, Head of Growth or something else?
Good. That's exactly where we start.*

Button: Book a conversation

06

HOW IT WORKS - DESIGN + FINAL COPY

Make the engagement feel structured enough for a board and practical enough for a founder.

Hero

We don't start with a job title. We start with the constraint.

Most growth problems cross organisational boxes. Our process is designed to find the real bottleneck, build the right commercial response and leave the business stronger after we go.

The four-stage method

01 - Diagnose

We look across the commercial system - economics, market, customer, proposition, sales, marketing, ecommerce, retention, data, systems and team - and separate evidence from assumption.

Output: a clear view of what is actually holding growth back.

02 - Design

We turn the diagnosis into a small number of priorities with owners, economics, sequencing and a practical operating model.

Output: a 90-day growth architecture the team can actually execute.

03 - Build

We work alongside your people and partners to turn the design into behaviour: meetings, processes, experiments, briefs, dashboards, hires and commercial decisions.

Output: the new growth system working in practice, not sitting in a deck.

04 - Transfer

We document, coach and help put permanent ownership in place. The best engagement makes you less dependent on us over time.

Output: capability that remains inside the company.

What working together feels like

Week / cadence	What happens
Start	Founder / CEO deep dive, key stakeholder interviews, focused data review.
Weekly	Growth Ops: priorities, exceptions, blockers, decisions.
Monthly	Executive growth review: KPIs, what changed, what needs a decision.
Every 90 days	Re-score the machine, reset priorities, decide whether to continue, reduce or transfer ownership.

CTA

If you are not yet sure what kind of senior growth role you need, start with the Machine Check.

Button: Explore the Machine Check

07

SERVICES - OVERVIEW + THREE SERVICE PAGES

Each service page should answer: when should I buy this, what changes, and what happens next?

Services overview page

Three ways to get senior growth leadership - depending on how clearly the problem is already defined.

Some clients need clarity. Some need a specific commercial problem solved. Others need ongoing senior ownership. The Growth Machine uses the same Diagnose → Design → Build → Transfer philosophy across all three.

Service	Use it when	Typical length	CTA
Machine Check	You know growth is not working as it should, but you are not sure why.	2–3 weeks	Find the constraint
Growth Sprint	The problem is defined and important enough to deserve senior focus.	4–8 weeks	Scope a sprint
Fractional Growth Office	You need ongoing senior leadership across growth without a permanent C-suite hire.	3–12+ months	Discuss a 90-day mandate

Service page: Machine Check

Hero copy

Before you hire another person, agency or platform, find out what is actually broken.

The Machine Check is a focused commercial diagnostic for founders and leadership teams who know growth could be better but do not yet trust the diagnosis.

When to use it

- Growth has plateaued or become unpredictable.
- Marketing and sales blame each other.
- You are considering a senior hire but are unsure which role you need.
- You have multiple agencies / tools / teams but no unified commercial view.
- You are entering a new stage and want to avoid scaling the wrong system.

What we examine

Business model & economics • market & ICP • proposition • demand • sales • ecommerce • retention • data • technology/process • team/partners • operating cadence • founder dependence

What you get

- Growth Machine diagnostic scorecard.
- The binding constraint(s) and dependencies.
- Stop / Start / Continue decisions.

- 90-day priority roadmap.
- Recommended capability map: what to fix, hire, outsource or stop.
- Executive read-out with the leadership team.

CTA copy

Clarity before commitment.

Button: Book a Machine Check

Service page: Growth Sprint

Hero copy

A senior team on one important growth problem, for long enough to actually change it.

Growth Sprints are fixed-scope engagements for commercial problems that cut across functions and cannot be solved by a quick campaign or one workshop.

Common sprint mandates

- Go-to-market reset or new market entry.
- Sales engine / pipeline architecture.
- Ecommerce profitability and retention reset.
- Pricing, packaging and proposition.
- Commercial organisation and role design.
- Channel strategy and launch planning.

How the sprint works

Diagnose the relevant system → agree the decision/outcome → build with the responsible team → hand over the operating assets and ownership.

CTA copy

Button: Discuss a Growth Sprint

Service page: Fractional Growth Office

Hero copy

Senior growth leadership without prematurely building the whole C-suite.

The Fractional Growth Office embeds Andrew and Tarren into the business at the level required to own the growth agenda, align functions and turn priorities into operating reality.

Best for

- Founder-led businesses that have outgrown founder-owned growth.
- Companies with capable functional people but no senior commercial integrator.

- Businesses between executive hires or still learning which permanent role they need.
- Portfolio companies that need commercial discipline deployed quickly.

What we own

- 90-day growth priorities and accountability.
- Sales / marketing / ecommerce / partner alignment around commercial outcomes.
- Leadership of selected strategic initiatives.
- Executive KPI and decision cadence.
- Capability gaps, hiring sequence and transition plan.

What we do not become

A production agency, outsourced junior team or permanent dependency. Specialist execution can sit with your people, existing agencies or vetted partners.

CTA copy

Start with a 90-day mandate. Earn the next 90 days.

Button: Discuss a Fractional Growth Office

08

WHO WE HELP - DESIGN + FINAL COPY

Qualify by business moment first, then demonstrate sector fluency.

Hero

Built for businesses that have proven something works - and now need to make growth repeatable.

The Growth Machine is most useful when the business has real customers, real complexity and real opportunity, but the commercial system has not caught up with the ambition.

Situation cards

YOU'VE OUTGROWN FOUNDER-LED GROWTH	YOU HAVE ACTIVITY WITHOUT OWNERSHIP	YOU'RE ENTERING A NEW STAGE
Too many important commercial decisions still depend on one person.	Teams and agencies are busy, but no one owns the end-to-end growth system.	New market, channel, product, funding or scale creates decisions the current structure was never designed for.

Where we are especially strong

B2B & professional services

Founder selling, GTM, pipeline, offer design, commercial process and leadership structure.

Consumer, DTC & ecommerce

Brand, ecommerce economics, customer insights, conversion, lifecycle, channel and marketing operating systems.

FMCG / omnichannel consumer

Trade marketing, data and insights, retail + DTC growth, channel roles, promotional logic and commercial planning.

Investor-backed growth businesses

Fast diagnostic, 90-day commercial priorities, executive reporting and temporary capability before permanent hiring.

Not the right fit

- Pre-revenue businesses looking for someone else to invent the company.
- A single tactical production requirement better served by a specialist agency/freelancer.
- A business looking for a low-cost pair of hands rather than senior judgement.
- Leadership teams unwilling to share data, make decisions or give the mandate authority.

CTA

If the problem crosses boxes on your org chart, it is probably worth a conversation.

Button: See if we fit

ABOUT - DESIGN + FINAL COPY

Sell pattern recognition, complementarity and operator credibility without turning the page into two résumés.

Page hero

We built The Growth Machine because growing companies often need senior judgement before they need another senior job title.

We have spent our careers building, fixing and growing businesses from different sides of the commercial system. The overlap is intentional; the differences are useful.

Andrew profile copy

Andrew is a serial entrepreneur and commercial operator whose centre of gravity is business design: finding the revenue model, creating the go-to-market system, shaping sales and marketing around it, and building the processes and teams required to make growth repeatable. His experience spans CEO/CRO leadership, B2B growth, new ventures, revenue systems and hands-on execution.

Tarren profile copy

Tarren is a consumer and ecommerce operator with deep experience across FMCG, trade marketing, data and insights, brand, direct-to-consumer ecommerce and the tools required to measure and optimise commercial performance. Her strength is connecting what the customer is doing with what the business should do next.

Joint copy

One engagement. Two senior operators. The problem determines who leads.

Clients are not passed down to a junior team. We work directly with founders, leadership teams and functional owners, bringing in specialist execution only where the problem requires it.

Suggested proof modules

- Selected businesses / categories / functions worked in - logos only where permission exists.
- 3–5 quantified career outcomes each, written as problem → action → result.
- “What I am unusually good at” mini-list for each partner; 4 bullets maximum.
- Optional candid section: “What we disagree about” - illustrates complementary judgement if brand tone supports it.

Imagery

Use real editorial portraits, ideally photographed together and individually in a working environment. Avoid formal arms-crossed studio portraits. Include one image of the two of you actively reviewing a board / whiteboard / laptop to reinforce “operators”.

10

INSIGHTS & CASE-STUDY TEMPLATES

Authority content should diagnose expensive problems, not produce generic marketing advice.

Insights landing page

Launch only when there is enough substance. Categorise around Growth Systems, Revenue & GTM, Ecommerce & Consumer, Founder / Team, and Case Studies. Avoid dozens of tags.

Recommended first article topics

- You do not need a Head of Growth yet. You need to know where growth is broken.
- The founder-dependence test: would revenue still move if you disappeared for 30 days?
- Why more leads can make a broken sales system worse.
- The difference between a fractional CMO, CRO, CGO and Growth Office.
- Before you add another ecommerce channel, model the economics.
- What a good 90-day growth mandate actually contains.

Case-study template

Section	Prompt
The situation	Stage, commercial context, what the client believed the problem was.
The diagnosis	What the data/interviews showed; the actual constraint.
The decision	What you deliberately chose not to do as well as what you chose.
What changed	Systems, roles, proposition, process, channel, measurement or capability.
Evidence	Leading indicators + commercial outcomes; disclose timeframe.
What remained	Capability / owner / operating rhythm left behind.

Case-study design

Use a large before/after metric only when robust. Otherwise make the hero insight the diagnosis: e.g., “They asked for leads. The real problem was founder-dependent sales.” That is stronger brand proof than a decorative testimonial.

11

CONTACT / BOOKING FLOW

Qualify without creating a procurement form.

Contact page hero

Tell us where growth feels harder than it should.

You do not need to diagnose the problem before you speak to us. Tell us what has changed, where you are stuck and what the business is trying to achieve.

Recommended form fields

Field	Type / note
Name	Required
Work email	Required
Company	Required
Website	Optional but useful
What are you trying to change?	Required free text; 2–4 lines
Approximate annual revenue	Optional range: <R10m / R10–30m / R30–100m / R100m+ / Prefer not to say
Which best describes the need?	Not sure / Machine Check / Sprint / Fractional leadership
Consent	Privacy consent only; no automatic newsletter opt-in

Booking logic

- After submit: either redirect to scheduling or send a manual scheduling link, depending on desired selectivity.
- If using open scheduling, ask the qualification fields before showing times.
- Confirmation page should set expectation: “30 minutes. No deck. We’ll ask where you’re trying to get to and what is getting in the way.”

Alternative CTA wording

Primary: Book a conversation. More diagnostic: Start with a Machine Check. More premium: Discuss the growth mandate. Avoid “Get a free strategy call”.

12

SEO, ANALYTICS & BUILD REQUIREMENTS

The site should be technically clean from day one, without letting SEO distort the positioning.

Home	Fractional Growth Leadership The Growth Machine	Senior fractional growth leadership for founder-led businesses. Diagnose the constraint, build the commercial system and create repeatable growth.

About	Andrew & Tarren The Growth Machine	Meet the senior operators behind The Growth Machine and the complementary experience they bring to B2B, B2C and ecommerce growth.

Technical requirements

- CMS editable by non-developers for pages, FAQs, case studies and insights.
- Excellent Core Web Vitals; compressed WebP/AVIF images; lazy loading below fold.
- GA4 + consent configuration; Search Console; event tracking for CTA clicks, form start, form submit and scheduling completion.
- Schema: Organization, Person, Service, Article / BlogPosting, BreadcrumbList and FAQ only where visible content supports it.
- Open Graph and social preview templates.
- Accessibility: semantic heading order, keyboard navigation, colour contrast, alt text, form labels and visible focus states.
- No automatic chat widget at launch unless it is genuinely staffed / valuable.
- If the brand name changes after clearance, URLs, metadata and schema must be easy to update globally.

SEO content themes

Use category keywords naturally - fractional CMO, fractional CRO, fractional chief growth officer, growth consultant, GTM consultant, ecommerce growth consultant - but lead the page language with the differentiated “Fractional Growth Office” idea. SEO should help people find the category, not force the brand to sound generic.

13

ASSET LIST & IMAGE BRIEFS

Give the developer / photographer / designer a real shot list instead of asking them to “find business images”.

Required launch assets

Asset	Use	Direction
Joint hero portrait - landscape	Home / About	Andrew + Tarren in a real working setting, mid-discussion or reviewing material. Natural light, editorial, no staged handshake.
Individual portrait - Andrew	About / author	Seated or standing in work context; direct but relaxed; room for copy crop.
Individual portrait - Tarren	About / author	Same visual family, not identical pose; intelligent, confident, approachable.
Working detail set	Home / How it works	Hands on whiteboard, marked-up printouts, laptop/data, sticky notes only if authentic; shallow depth, no stock-office smiles.
System graphic	Home	Custom abstract diagram using modules + orange signal line; no literal gears.
Diagnostic scorecard graphic	Machine Check	Clean heatmap / 12-dimension scorecard using anonymised sample data.
90-day plan graphic	Growth Office	Simple now/next/later or 3-priority board.
Case-study visual	Case studies	Client environment / product / relevant process image where permission exists; otherwise typography-led card.

Photography art direction

- Colour: neutral / warm, slightly desaturated, natural skin tones. Do not overgrade orange into every image.
- Composition: 35mm–85mm editorial photography, negative space for copy, real depth and imperfect human moments.
- Wardrobe: smart but not corporate uniform; reflect how you would actually meet a founder.
- Environment: contemporary office/studio/boardroom/cafe/workshop with texture. Avoid fake skyscraper boardrooms and obvious stock sets.
- Shot mix: 30% portraits, 30% working together, 25% detail/system, 15% environmental.

Image brief by website section

Section	Best visual
Home hero	Joint portrait OR abstract commercial-system animation. Do not use both at equal visual weight.
Problem section	Typography-led; optional close-up of messy notes / fragmented dashboards, abstracted enough not to feel stock.
System map	Custom vector diagram, not photography.

Section	Best visual
Method	Numbered modular graphic; subtle scroll animation.
Services	Typography/cards; small functional diagrams rather than photos.
About	Strongest real photography on the site.
Machine Check	Anonymised scorecard / constraint map graphic.
Growth Sprint	Whiteboard / decision architecture detail.
Growth Office	Executive operating cadence / three-priority dashboard graphic.
Who We Help	Mostly type and sector/situation cards; avoid generic sector stock images.

Generative/reference image prompts - if needed for moodboarding only

1. “Editorial photograph of two experienced business operators in their 40s working side-by-side at a large table covered with a concise commercial plan, natural daylight, premium but unpolished studio-office, intelligent candid interaction, muted warm neutral palette, documentary photography, 50mm lens, no handshake, no staged corporate smiles, generous negative space.”
2. “Close editorial detail of a commercial strategy workshop: hand drawing a simple customer-to-revenue flow on white paper beside a laptop with blurred analytics, natural texture, warm off-white and charcoal palette, one restrained orange marker, high-end business magazine photography, no readable confidential data.”
3. “Minimal abstract business-system illustration, cream background, black modular boxes connected by a single burnt-orange signal line that becomes more ordered from left to right, editorial management-consulting aesthetic, no gears, no arrows pointing upward, no 3D icons.”

These are direction prompts, not final website assets. Any likeness of Andrew or Tarren should use an approved real photograph/reference rather than an invented AI likeness.

14

LAUNCH QA CHECKLIST

The developer should be able to use this page as the final pre-launch punch list.

Content & UX

- Every page has one clear primary CTA.
- No page starts with a CV or generic service list.
- All fit/not-fit language is consistent across services.
- No unsupported client claim, logo, revenue figure or testimonial.
- Mobile line lengths and heading wraps are manually checked, not only responsive by default.
- Forms show useful error messages and a clear success state.

Technical

- HTTPS, canonical tags, XML sitemap and robots.txt configured.
- 301 rules documented if domain/name changes.
- GA4 / consent / Search Console connected and tested.
- CTA and form events fire once and are named consistently.
- Images compressed and alt text completed.
- 404 and thank-you pages designed.
- Page titles/descriptions unique; one H1 per page.
- Schema validates with no misleading FAQ or review markup.
- Keyboard navigation and colour contrast tested.
- Core pages tested on current Chrome, Safari and mobile devices.

Brand

- No cogs/gears/rocket/"10x" clichés slipped into final design.
- Orange accent remains a signal, not the dominant page colour.
- Photography looks like the same editorial world.
- Copy reads as senior operators, not a marketing agency.
- The phrase "Fractional Growth Office" is used consistently and explained once, clearly.

Final developer note

NORTH STAR

The most important design requirement is hierarchy. The site must make the visitor understand the problem and the idea before asking them to understand the service catalogue. If a visual element makes the company look more tactical, more generic or more "growth-hacky", remove it.
